

Why Is people protesting?

After NOV-2016 election uncertainty and fear had been the ~~now~~ ^{at} the United States' society. When ^{OR where} there is fear, there is uncertainty.

We had ~~been~~ wired in a way that make us feel uncomfortable when we don't know what is going to happen. Now the question is, if that's the reason why people are protesting in US, and if so who might be to be blame for such uncertainty.

Is it because President Trump WASN'T ~~wasn't~~ clear enough about what his proposal were going to be? OR IS it because it is clear and those who lost doesn't want to acknowledge, accept and agree that he and his proposals are ~~are~~ A reflection of American Society's values?

ONE NATION UNDER GOD... That's the context where this conversation should be occurring. But ~~unfor~~unfortunately it is not. Conversation is NOT

Who ARE WE PRAYING FOR? based on the foundation of the NATION which is God... Almighty The same God that is Love. Instead we had traded God for our own opinion and that's where things had taken a turn to the worst.

Human opinion is mutable. Bible says that is like the wave of the ocean. So, going back to the question... Who should be blame for our unrested state? We walked away from our stronghold, from our source of stability, from He who had never failed...

Yeah, I don't blame the President and I understand the protestors one and the others. Confront and demonstrate what happen when a country move from a solid foundation to a shaky one.

Peace,
